BIG BOOZE HAUL MADE TODAY BY THE POLICE

Four Barrels of Mash Found in House

STILL IS CAPTURED

Man and Woman Who Claim They Are From Terre Haute, Ind., Taken In Custody.

One of the biggest whiskey hauls made by the police during the past year took place at 11:30 o'clock this morning when a raid was made on a house known as 115 South Union street. The police upon entering the place discovered four full grown whiskey barrels filled to the brim with mash for corn whiskey, one still with a capacity of forty gallons, about one hundred pounds of sugar, one new oil stove, one ten gallon stone jar, large oil can, a small quantity of corn liquor, several cans of articles supposed to have been used in the manufacture of whiskey, rubber pipes and a large copper coil for the still. The still was declared to be one of the most perfect yet taken by the police.

Owing to the fact that the proposition of handling the four barrels of mash was regarded as out of the question, the police simply destroyed the mash by pouring large quantities of salt in each barrel and let it remain in the house.

The house is a two story brick structure and the mash and other articles were found in the attic of the house. There was little furniture in the premises. The house is now undergoing repairs.

The police took in custody a young man giving the name of Abraham Fortune, 29 years old, who says he came here two weeks ago from Terre Haute, Ind., and a white woman describing herself as Grace Brady, 24 years old, who says her home also is in Terre Haute, Ind., and who says she came to Alexandria about two weeks ago in search of employment. Both deny ownership of the still and gave the police the name of a man whom they claim is the owner. They are arranging for a bail bond each which probably will be given late this afternoon.

The raid was made by Chief Goods, Sergeant Campbell, Policemen Walker and Cline.

Successful Entertainment

More than four hundred people witnessed and enjoyed the Black Face Fantasy which was given by the students of Alexandria High School in the High School Auditorium on Friday and Saturday nights. The High School comedians kept the audiences in uproarous laughter from beginning to end at each performance Professor Sloe, Ph. D., played by Howard Baggett, gave some illustrations as to the difficulties encountered in the attempt to enlighten a class of "coal black roses," in an act entitled "The Night School." In the second act, Tobias and Mose, acted by Bennette Moore and Frank O'Meara, held the audience in great suspense while they appeased their hunger with flaming bananas, and many other acts of magic. For the main act which was called "Jazz, Jokes and Jingles," the stage was artisticly set as for an olden day "husking bee." The stage was set about with corn ready for the husking and a great harvest moon was seen just making its appearance over the eastern horizon when the "darkies" began to make their appearance for an evening of hilarity. During the course of the husking each one present was called upon to entertain with jokes, songs or recitations. Tambo and Sambo, impersonated by Fred Pettit and Stanley Dreifus kept everything gay between the numbers with a great line of rare jokes. Brother Hennie Brown, otherwise Henderson Sutthard, buck dancer de luxe, seemed to give the audience what was wanted as at both performances he was called back several times. Sambo delighted his listeners with several selections in the baritone which he calls "all his own." Many other equally delightful numbers were on the program which was concluded with the singing of "Goodnight Ladies" by the entire company.

The money realized from the minstrel will go Athletic Association. Miss Kroes Ficklin directed the entire play and was assisted in the business end by Miss Kathryn Adams and Richard Wright, in the stage decoration by Bennett Moore and in properties by Frank O'Meara. Accompanists for the several musical numbers were Miss Louise Thomas, Miss Marian Dienelt, Miss Dorothy Hinton and Miss Louise Anderson.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 21.—Friends of former President Wilson who saw in the ovation tnedered him during the funeral procession of the unknown dead on Armistice Day his possible return to a position of power and influence in the Democratic Party have been trying hard in the last few days to get some idea of how he stands on the arms conference and the possible guaranty of the peace of the world that may come from it

But it is learned that hese attempts have proved fruitless. While the former President has his own ideas on the conference, he is communicating them but to a few personal friends and only then with the strict understanding that they are not for publication. Efforts to interview the former President have also been renewed without success. The statement is made that Mr. Wilson intends to pursue for the present the same silence that he has pursued since March 4. His attitude has been the subject of much favorable criticism from both Republicans and Democrats, who see in his policy a determination not to embarass the present administration in any way.

The officially announced stand of the United States against increasing the proportion of Japan's navy to that of Great Britain and the United States has created the first cloud on the horizon of the arms conference. It is now up to Japan to back down from her stand for an increase in her proportion of war vessels or to reject her announced "acceptance in principle" of the American plan. Those who know the firmness and inflexibility with which the American stand was announced know that the American pronouncement is final and that there will be no surrendering to the Japs. Inquiry among the members of the Japanese delegation fails to reveal what the course of that government will be toward the naval limitation plan in view of the American statement, but it is said he Japs are inclined a feel a bit resentful that her claims should have been so summarily rejected before the technical experts had even had time to examine the Jap proposals.

Novel experiences befall Secretary of Labor Davis as head of the United States immigration administration. Sometimes these experineces are more than merely novel, they are embarassing. The Secretary has been asked many times by alien new comers to find them wives. But the other day the Secretary got a request that puzzled him. It was an appeal from a California man who wanted his wife deported, "the grant ing of which," said the applicant, "would be deeply and gratefully appreciated by me."

"Ingenious," said the Secretary, "but a little out of my line. The Department of Labor is not a divorce court, but if it wanted to it could do quite a business in that line. It might surprise as well as amuse the public to learn that the Department files contain a number of such appeals from discontented husbands."

Voicing his disapproval of the further use by civilized natons of submarines and advocating that they be "scrapped," Representative Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the House Naval Committee, declared today that if he had his way about it, every underseas boat owned by the nations of the world would be abandoned and their future use barred by international agreement.

"I would cut out the use of the submarine altogether if I had my way about it," said the Chairman. "But if this cannot be brought about through mutual agreement on the part of the maritime nations, then I would abolish the construction of all submarines having a cruising capacity of more than 200 miles from their bases of supplies. I would put a stop to their use except only for coast defense purposes."

The "Order of the Cockatoo" was inaugurated on Saturday afternoon at the Pan-American building where the Far East conference was held. The members are newspaper men who cover" the conference meetings The insignia of the order is a feather dropped from the plumage of the cockatooes that perch among the trees in the patio or tropical garden forming part of the magnificent structure. There are no dues and the membership is limited. A large waiting list is already in prospect.

Two Men, Once Friends

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—Once warm friends, Antonio Marshall and Paul Letz, each about 30, who had become deadly enemies over a girl's chose a dramatic setting for the denouncement of their rivalry.

Going out to the middle of the Thirty-third street bridge, spanning the Allegheny river, at midnight, they faced each other under the glow of an electric lamp and began shooting.

The aim of each was true and both fell. Marshall died in St. Francis' Hospital this morning, and Letz, in the same institution, is not expected to live through tomorrow. Neither recovered consciousness after being found, and only fragments of the story leading up to the tragedy have been collected and pieced together by the police.

CHILD ACCUSES HIS FATHER OF MURDER OF 3

Divorced Wife, Mother-in-Law and Caller are Victims of Jealous Rage

DRUNK, SAYS WIFE

Wilmington, Ohio, Nov. 21.—Oliver Vandervort, aged 32, who claims to be a fur dealer of this city, is being held under a murder charge in the Clinton County Jail here today following a triple murder at Cuba, a village near here, last night.

Those murdered were Bertha Whitlow Vandervort, aged 30, his divorced wife and mother of Vandervort's three children, Mrs. Jeff Whitlow, aged 57, mother of Mrs. Vandervort, and Howard Boser, aged 24, said to have been a caller on Mrs. Vandervort.

Mrs. Whitlow, before dying from her wounds, the police say, declared that Vandervort committed the murders. The police say she told them Vandervort came to her home while intoxicated and started a quarrel which ended in the shooting of the three.

Rodney Wallace, a farmer living near the Whitlow home, informed the authorities today that Vandervort, while crazed by drink, shot him last night. A post mortem examination will be held today to determined if the same caliber bullets killed the three persons and injured Wallace.

Vandervort told the authorities today that he was not responsible for the triple murder and that he is the victim of circumstances in having been found at the Whitlow home. He claime that while walking in the road in front of the Whitlow home he heard a commotion and saw in the darkness a figure rush from the door. He said he could not tell whether the figure was that of a man or woman. According to his story, the police say, Vandervort's 10-year-old son, Oliver, rushed from the house to call for help, saw his father and induced him to enter.

Asked by the authorities who did the shooting ,the boy said: "Papa did it."

The three small Vandervort children were the only witnesses. When the police arrived Vandervort was sitting in the house holding his youngest child, a baby.

Oliver, the 10-year-old son, told the authorities that after the shooting he attempted to attract the attenion of neighbors by shooing a revolver four times into the ground. The revolver with four empty cartridges was found in the house. Another revolver, which had not been fired, was found in Vandervort's auto. No trace was found of the gun with which the murders were committed.

Mrs. Vandervort was killed when she came to the door to answer Vandervort's knock, according to young Oliver's story to the authorities. She had her baby in her arms, but it was unharmed. A bullet pierced her head.

Bosier was then shot, the boy said, and Mrs. Whitlow fell a third victim when she came downstairs, attracted by the shots.

Vandervort and his wife had been divorced twice. Their second divorce was granted about six weeks ago.

Plans Improvements

New Police JusticeTo Have Quarters Ready January 1.

Plans soon will be mapped out for certain improvements in the police court room to accomodate the new civil and police justice, F. G. Duvall. Members of the committee on public property accompanied by Justice Duvall yesterday made a preliminary survey of the big room preparatory to completing the task of presenting their plans to city council.

When the new justice takes office January 1, all civil and criminal cases will be tried in this court, that is the civil cases heretofore tried before magistrates and other arrangements will have to be made for the accomodation of those who will have business in this court.

Mrs. C. G. Supinger has returned to her home in Front Royal, after spending some time as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Carlton A. Padgett, Jr., at her home in South Royal street.

Miss Wilhelmina Matters, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Matters, delightfully entertained on her seventh birthday at an enjoyable party. The home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. Among those present were Maurice Wingfield, Lillian Wingfield, Lillian Humpheries, Virginia Davis, Margaret Haynes, Catherine Haynes, Louis Duty, Booty Duty, Russel Osgood, Francis Osgood, Clarence Bowles, Mildred Beck, Melvin Beck, Charles Jewels, Edgar Woodg, Marion Wood, Billy Matters and Louis Matters.

CUT IN ARMIES TO BE LEFT TO LATER DATE

Premier Briand Will Explain France's Position on This Issue Today

NAVAL PLAN SOON

Secretary Hughes Reported Willing to Compromise All Points Except Capital Ships.

Washington ,Nov. 21.—With a prospect of success far beyond the anticipation of the veteran statesmen in attendance, the International Conference on Limitation of Armament begins its second week by getting down to brass tacks on the multitude of concrete questions involved in its program.

The last of the preliminaries will be staged tomorrow when there will be an open session of the Conference for the express purpose of permitting M. Briand, the French Premier, to inaugurate the discussion of reduction and limitation of land armaments by stating the position of France on this question. Then the Premier will go home, leaving the army curtailment problem as a side issue of the Conference, which is expected to leave it in turn to the consideration of some future council of the powers.

Having concluded this plenary session, which is likely to be the last for some time, the Conference will proceed with the consideration of the naval holiday plan and the Far Eastern problem in secret committee meetings.

Despite the efforts of Japan to modify the Hughes plan so as to obtain a greater proportional strength in capital ships and in airplane carriers and of Great Britain to obtain a different system of replacement, there is every reason to expect a comparatively early agreement on reduction and limitation of naval armament. That will register success in the main objective of the Conference, and with the attainment of that end President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes do not intend to permit considerations pertaining to other questions to interfere.

Some there are who feel the Japanese will prolong consideration of the armament question with a view to wringing concessions from the United States in the settlement of Far Eastern questions before yielding on the navy restriction plan.

The authorized spokesmen for Japans delegation however have stated that Japan is ready to join with the United States and Great Britain in reaching an agreement on armaments without reference to other matters.

Mr. Hughes is willing to compromise on features of the American plan evcept that relating to capital ships, and the British take the same stand. Consequently when a fair compromise has been evolved the Japanese, it is believed, will find it the part of wisdom to accept without further ado.

Prospects of success in settling the Far Eastern and Pacific questions are decidedly less roseate. Compared with this one the armament question is simplicity itself. When it comes to the conflicting national interests in the Orient the Conference will deem itself lucky to produce half a loaf, leaving the dough for the other half to some future international conference, possibly at Tokio.

Japan does not intend to give up the foothold she has obtained in Manchuria, though she is willing to compromise with the powers on questions relating to China proper—that is, the 18 provinces within the Great Wall, exclusive of Manchuria, Mongolia and Tibet. The British, who have control of outer Tibet, are supporting the Japanese position as to Manchuria.

Secretary Hughes would have all the leases, grants and secret agreements as regards to China thrown on the table and examined by the Conference, wth a view to determine their validity, wiping out those deemed invalid and agreeing on the termination of the others on a basis fair to the holders of property rights there under. Japan is unwilling to do this, and her resistance will be the center of the discussion and of the diplomatic maneuvering in and about the Conference henceforth.

Sixteen members of the Old Dominion Boat Club enjoyed a delightful Oyster Roast at Fort Foote yesterday. The trip was made in the launch, "Edlyn," belonging to E. E. Carver, and in the launch belonging to C. J. Mueller.

Bible Thought for Today

VIRGINIA NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Fredericksburg. — While playing with his father's shotgun Friday, Walter, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Sample, of Spotsylvania county, was instantly killed when the gun was accidentally discharged. The youth was playing in a room where the gun was kept with George, a brother, 2 years his senior, when Mrs. Sample was horrified to hear an explosion of the weapon. She rushed into the room and found the child with practically all of his face and head torn off. One chamber of a double-barreled gun was loaded with a No. 8 shot shell, which the youth had found and was playing with. One shot struck his elder brother and went entirely through his nose.

Lynchburg.—First Lieut. A. S. Burnham, who has been acting captain of Company B, Second Virginia Infantry, here, for some weeks, has resigned from the service, and Governor Davis has accepted the resignation. The company will elect a captain and first lieutenant next Tuesday night. There has been a vacancy in the captaincy of the company since Captain R. E. Craighill was made lieutenant-colonel of the regiment. Lieutenant Burnham was a major in the One Hundred and Sixteenth Regiment in France during the world war, having gone out in command of Company H, of Covington.

Lynchburg.—With a committee representing the Ministerial Union here appointed to start work looking to inauguration of plans for a large auditorium for the Billy Sunday campaign to be held here a year hence, Walker Pettyjohn, member of the City Council, has directed the Council's attention to the move and asked the members to consider the location of the auditorium upon a site owned by the city at Thirteenth and Court Streets and that the city join the ministers to provide a permanent auditorium instead of a temporary one.

Richmond.—Copies of an opinion rendered by Attorney-General John R. Saunders, of Virginia, at the request of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, have been mailed out from the offices of the board to all justices of the peace in the State, instructing them that, under sections of the statutory law quoted by the Attorney-General, they are to stop sentencing to jail minors under 18 years of age except for very aggravated offenses.

Toano.—This town and the Virginia peninsula were today settling down to normal conditions following the closing of the first annual field trial meet here of the Virginia Fox Hunters' Association. The meeting was brought to a close at a sumptuous banquet tendered the huntsmen by the citizens of Toano. The annual election of officers of the association followed in the auditorium of the high school building here.

Winchester.—Formation of a company to manufacture bricks for building purposes was announced today by a number of Winchester and Frederick county men, who were interested in plans launched recently by Baltimore interests for such an enterprise, but which failed to materialize. The new company, headed by F. A. White, will begin building operations at once on a site where there is an abundance of clay.

Fredericksburg.—At the recent State election held in Kentucky, Elerbe W. Carter, formerly of this city, was elected to the legislature from one of the Louisville districts on the Republican ticket. All of the other Republican candidates on the ticket, excepting the Governor, were defeated by the Democratic candidates. Mr. Carter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Carter, of this city, and formerly practiced law in Fredericksburg.

Chicago to Find Out

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The courts will be asked to decide whether dancing the "shimmy" in extreme form is illegal in Chicago, as a result of a series of raids conducted by the police early today, it was announced by the State's Attorney's office.

A score of cabarets, gambling houses and saloons were invaded by the police in the most concerted drive launched against them in many months.

At a South side cafe frequented by both whites and negroes the proprietor and several inmates were arrested. In their prosecution will come the test to determine the "shimmy's" legality, it was said, for it is planned to prosecute them under a seldom-invoked law which makes any person producing or taking part in an immoral dance subject to a $200 fine or one year's imprisonment.

Officials declared that they had witnesses who would testify that the "shimmy" was immoral.

Oehlert Found In Jail Hiding Under Bunk

Prisoner, Who Was Supposed to Have Escaped Discovered Yesterday Morning By Jailer Cross' Four Year Old Son

HAD NEVER LEFT THE JAIL

Oehlert Had Seven Hack Saws Which He Had Hidden In a Vent Pipe—Planned to Make Getaway Today While Court Was in Session—Prisoner Makes Second Attempt to Escape Last Night and Negro Prisoner Calls Jailer and Plans Are Frustrated—Prisoner Now Closely Guarded.

Concealed beneath the bunk of two fellow prisoners in a cell other than the ine in which he had been originally placed, William H. Oehlert, held for the fatal shooting of Henry Briscoe, which occurred in Fairfax county October 15, was found yesterday morning, although a wide search was in progress for the prisoner who was supposed to have escaped from the jail at Fairfax Courthouse early Friday morning.

The discovery of Oehlert was made by Glennon Cross, the four year old son of Jailor Harvey Cross.

At 7 o'clock yesterday morning Jailor Cross was serving breakfast to the prisoners in the jail. He came to the cell occupied by two young white men nad opened it and handed them their breakfast. His little son entered the cell and observed a hand protruding from beneath the bunk and casually remarked to his father, "Daddy Mr. Oehlert is under there." Jailor Cross told the child to pull the blanket up which ran down the side of the bunk to the floor. The child failed to do so, whereupon Jailor Cross pulled up the blanket and found Oehlert crouching beneath the bunk. He had Oehlert covered with his pistol. Oehlert was placed in another cell and subsequently furnished breakfast.

Oehlert last night at 8:30 o'clock made a second attempt to escape and his plans this time were frustrated by a colored prisoner who occupied a cell adjoining that of Oehlert. The prisoner's name is Willam Gregg and when Gregg heard the noise made by the hacks saw he lustily cried for Jailor Cross, His cries were responded to and when Jailor Cross arrived he found that Oehlert had succeeded in completely sawing off the iron shackles which had a few hours before been placed about the legs to prevent any further attempt to escape. The hack saw with which he did the work had been concealed beneath the floor of the cell, it is stated. Oehlert from now on will be guarded both day and night and there is little likelihood of any further efforts to escape.

According to Jailor Cross Oehlert was supplied with seven hack saws and an improvised wrench which he had made out of a piece of iron pipe which he sawed from an iron bunk of a cell which he occupied. This wrench he is supposed to have given to young white men who occupied a cell on the first floor of the jail. With ths implement they succeeded in wrenching the hasp holding the big lock of his cell. This being accomplished Oehlert had freedom to the corridor. He next attacked the stout iron bar of the window of the jail. He succeeded in bending one of the bars and twisting it out of shape. According to Oehlert the opening while sufficiently large to protrude his head was not large enough for his body to go through, consequently he decided to postpone his efforts to escape, daylight about that time having set in.

Accordingly he returned to the cell occupied by the young men to make believe that he had escaped. He kept under cover and they pretended the jailor says to have heard no noise that night. Since Friday he had subsisted on food furnished him by these two prisoners, they having divided with him at each meal.

His idea Jailor Cross thinks was to make his escape this morning when the two prisoners in question would be taken over to the courthouse for trial and no one would be about the jail.

Oehlert had very little to say according to the Jailor afer he was detected and made no statement as to how he got the hack saws.

After the jailer had discovered Oehlert in jail instead of out of jail a search was begun for his weapons.

Within a short time Jailor Cross says he found seven hack saws and the improvised wrench. They had been concealed in a vent pipe of Oehlert's cell by the prisoner. These saws the Jailor says were furnished him by someone on the outside and a complete investigation is being made to trace their source.

No further chances are to be taken with Oehlert declared Jailor Cross this morning and every effort is possible to prevent his escape will be taken till after his trial.

Oehlert was supposed to have fled

LINOTYPE SCHOOLS

The Gazette has just completed the installation of a new linotype machine, to be used almost exclusively for the convenience of its advertisers. It saves much composition by hand, does the work quicker, and permits an elaboration and display of the advertisements that otherwise would be impossible. The increasing patronage of the Gazette's advertising columns has rendered this imperative. The advertisements in the paper now vie in skill and beauty of make-up with any metropolitan daily in the country. This is also due to the expert copy-writing of the Gazette's specialists, who re-write and arrange typographically nearly all the advertising copy that comes in.

Type setting machines are among the most ingenious inventions of man. They are so complete and so perfect in mechanism that they seem to possess almost human intelligence. The type metal goes into an electrically-heated pot, is melted and flows into type-molds, is spaced and arranged in lines fitting a newspaper column, and comes forth punctuated, paragraphed, and ready for the press. The key-board is operated by the most delicate and skilful fingers; these, in turn, are guided in their deft manipulation by a human brain that presides over all, and which often corrects bad spelling and worse grammar!

It requires no mean order of intelligence to operate a linotype machine, and a lengthy apprenticeship is usually required. The Company owning the patents itself operates and maintains four free schools of instruction in the United States. Besides which some thirty-five states, at their various educational institutions, give courses in linotyping.

Nearly 50,000 linotypes are in use all over the world. The demand for skilled operators is greater than the supply. We know of no more useful invention in the last fifty years. It spreads the printed page among additoinal millions daily, and thus adds to the sum total of human knowledge. More than this, many of our disabled soldiers, sailors and marines are learning to earn a good livelihood, large numbers of the unfortunate deaf and dumb are enabled to support themselves, and thousands of ambitious young men and women are finding their place in one of the most important of the world's industries.

Six of the machines are in operation at the Vatican, at Rome; thirteen battleships of the U. S. Navy have them on board; and more than forty countries have installed them in their government printing offices.

In short, the linotype, as an invention of peace, has its victories no less renowned than the devilish inventions of war. We can scrap our navies and reduce our armies, but we cannot afford to do without our type setting machines and their skilled and intelligent operators.

ALEXANDRIA HOSPITAL

It is the custom on Thanksgiving Day of each year, for the good citizens of Alexandria to substantially remember that most deserving institution in our midst—the Alexandria Hospital. In previous years bountiful offerings of money, groceries, and "house-keepers' goodies," have been liberally showered upon the management, and it is to be hoped most earnestly that this year will surpass all others.

Many of our citizens have already formed the habit on Thanksgiving Day of calling at the Hospital and leaving their good cheer with a "God bless you!"—Some even make it their chief donation of the year!—It is a good habit to acquire, and we hope that this year will see many new faces who wish to contribute to the causes of thanksgiving among those who are less fortunate than themselves.

The members of the Board of Managers will be at the Hospital on Thanksgiving Day as in past years, to gratefully acknowledge the contributions of money, or food supplies, or "goodies"—as may be most convenient to the donors.

Indeed, there can be no greater pleasure than that of making others thankful on this day of thanksgiving all over the land.

A THOUSAND THRILLS

Tonight and tomorrow night at our leading local screen theatre, there is a film that promises a thousand thrills. A log-jam in the wilderness of the northwoods, a swirling torrent, thousands of leaping, tumbling logs—a wounded man in the midst of them, being borne to a terrible fate—a maiden in whom love casts out fear, and who dares death a hundred times to save her lover—these are some of the realistic scenes that cause a catching of the breath and a tingling of the spinal nerves.

A plot filled with adventure and portraying the cleaner side of human passions—lovable men and women—a proper viewpoint—a keen psychologic analysis—all this makes "Conflict," with Priscilla Dean as the star, well worth a pilgrimage to behold.

The orchestra is an admirable adjunct; the solos are given by an artist of real merit; and Alexandrians can enjoy both good music and thrilling film right here at home.

GROUP OF VIRGINIA PILOTS

An organization which commands the admiration and confidence of not only all shipping interests, but high Goverament officials, and, in all truth, is known the world over for one hundred per cent. efficiency. The center of the above group, Capt. W. R. Boutwell, president of the Virginia Pilots' Association, has been in the service continuously nearly forty-four years. He was chosen from the ranks by his associates to head the organization because of their faith in him and their belief in his exceptional fitness for such great responsibilities as that office entails. Each of his many succeeding years as the directing head of this organization has served to more firmly cement the implicit confidence of the membership in his sterling integrity and ability as a good and wise counselor of men and a rare creator and director of movements for their best interests, as well as for the surrounding community and the State itself.

For the safety of human life and property, it is but right and proper that only those who are known to be competent should be entrusted with the pilotage of ships to and from the ports of Virginia.

And how are we to know that a pilot is competent and equal to the task unless he has had the proper course of training under the old, skilled masters?

THEY DESPAIRED OF HER RECOVERY

But Mrs. Mays' Restoration by Taknig Tanlac Creates a Big Sensation Among Friends

"My troubles had gotten the best of me and all my friends despaired of my recovery, but I'm a perfectly well woman now and can never praise Tanlac enough for restoring my health," said Mrs. H. P. Mays, of 308 Fifth St., Madison Heights, a suburb of Lynchburg, Va.

"I suffered so with indigestion I couldn't even drink a glass of fresh buttermilk without having cramps in my stomach and pains in my chest. My kidneys bothered me a lot, and I was so nervous I would lie awake sometimes nearly all night. From time to time I would get down in bed for a week or more, and when I got up again I could not do a bit of my housework for days afterwards. I also had rheumatism in my arms so bad I couldn't even raise my hands to my face.

"I made up my mind to try Tanlac and it has relieved me of all my troubles. All my friends know how I suffered and my recovery was nothing less than a sensation. I've already gained ten pounds in weight and I can do all my housework with perfect ease."

from the jail early Friday morning. The empty cell and the twisted iron of the jail window were mute, evidence that a prisoner had fled. The entire countryside was searched and rewards aggregating $350 were offered for Oehlert's apprehension.

Circulars giving a description of the supposed fugitive had been printed and were being sent out broadcast.

News that Oehlert had been found in jail at Fairfax was received in Alexandria about 8 o'clock Sunday morning. Soon the news spread and there were few persons who believed it, many rgarding it was the work of some practical joker. However, it was confirmed when they telephoned police headquarters.

Jailor Cross and the police officials here were gratified when they learned that Oehlert after all was still safe in jail.

A grand jury in Fairfax met today at 10 o'clock, Judge S. G. Brent presiding, and took up the consideration of the case against Oehlert. The jury had not reported when the Gazette report closed, they having a number of other cases for consideration. It is expected that an indictment will be returned late his afternoon. A number of other indictments also presented by Acting Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson Farr also will be acted on.

A. H. S. WINS

Defeating George Mason high school's football team Saturday by the overwhelming score of 48 to 7, Alexandria will meet the team of Charlotesville High, on Lambeth field at the University of Virginia Wednesday afternoon for the eastern championship of Virginia, the winner of which will play Roanoke high school, western champions, for the championship of the state.

In the game with George Mason Saturday, Alexandria had things her way from the first kick-off to the final whistle. Alexandria received and Nowland ran the ball up a short distance. Pohl was called upon to carry the ball and started the game with a seven yard gain through the line, Midkiff followed this up with a 15 yard run around end. Dreifus fumbled and lost 15 yards, but recovering the ball, on the next play he carried it back through tackle for the distance he lost. A forward pass was then tried but was intercepted by Cobean of George Mason. Alexandria held for three downs and George Mason kicked. The ball was then carried down the field with a series of line plunges and end runs, and Jack Pohl was sent over for the first touchdown before five minutes Dreifus to Pettit. The pass falling Dreifus added the extra point. Alexandria then kicked off and held for downs and a pass from Pettit to Midkiff and a nicely run 30 yards and the second touchdown. Dreifus missed the goal. The second period began with a touchdown by Pettit and Dreifus kicked the goal. Alexandria received and in attempting to bring the ball up the field tried a pass from Preifus to Pettit. The pass falling short of its mark, fell into the waiting arms of R. Saffell, who having a clear field easily made the lone touchdown for his team. He also added the extra point. After quite a bit of up-and-down field playing, during which Alexandria was penalized heavily several times, Pettit took it over and kicked his goal. This ended the scoring for the first half which ended with the ball near George Mason's goal line. Score at half: A. H. S., 27; George Mason, 7.

The second half started with a snap which continued throughout the rest of the game. The ball was in possion of Alexandria the greater part of the time, George Mason only getting it on kick-offs and when a pass was intercepted. During the course of the second half Pohl added another touchdown as did Travers and Suthard, Pettit making all the extra points. At the beginning of the third period Coach Hasson of the Alexandria high school substituted a number of second string men. On the kick-off following Suthard's touchdown, Saffell received and after passing up the side line had a clear field to the goal with the exception of Ayres, Alexandria's 110 pound tackle. The crowd held its breath while Ayres left the ground and brought this hefty opponent to the ground after which George Mason threatened the goal no more. Forward passes were resorted to by George Mason in the last dying effort to score but to no avail, as they were outclassed and outplayed.

STATE PAYS NO PART OF PILOTAGE

It Is Paid Only By Ships Engaged In Foreign Trade—By Foreign Flags And Bottoms—Under Control Of The United States Shipping Board. Pilotage Comes Wholly From Outside The State, And Whatever The Amount Goes To The Grocer, Clothier, Doctor, Farmer And The Mechanics Of All Branches, As Well As To Public Enterprises.

Nine out of ten steamship agents and characterers who bring their vessels to our ports certify over their signatdres that the Virginia Pilots rates bear favorable those of rival ports, and that they want no legislation on the subject. What better testimony is desired than that of those who are so direcly interested—even to the extent of paying the money?

The unusually liberal compensation of the pilots during the war period came about through a quick turnover (a large number of vessels), and not by virtue of a high rate against a few. As a matter of fact, there has not been the least increase in pilotage rates since 1908, although the war period of high prices for everything else has left its mark in all other channels.

During the war period compensation was greater than before, 'tis true—not on account of any increase in rates, however; but, because of the great number of ships handled in a given time; and, if we are to discuss and compare this at all, why not compare it with a member of the legal profession, who because during some particular period has been the recipient of many fees; or the farmer because of one or two prosperous years out of a dozen or more poor ones?

Where is there to be found in this country any other set of men—trade, calling or profession—whose actual rates of pay for a given service in a given time—have not greatly increased since 1908—especially during the war period?

The pilots have not increased one penny on the same service since 1908. The only way in which their compensation has been increased was by increased service on their part—handling more ships in a given time—a much greater volume of service at the same old rate.

Suppose every merchant, manufacturer, professional man, mechanic and day laborer, had followed out this plan all through the World War period: Had such been the case this country would not today be facing the manifold knotty, threatening problems which bob up at every hand's turn.

Many ports of the United States being but five to nine miles from sea, have higher rates of pilotage than Virginia. Pilotage for the port of Baltimore is very much higher than with the Virginia Pilots. The maximum rate there begins on thirteen feet draft, while the maximum charge at the Virginia ports is not reached until the vessel draws twenty feet.

Baltimore has only two rates, while Virginia has six. Besides, the Baltimore pilots operate with only one boat, whereas, of necessity, the Virginia pilots maintain four, with one hundred men on their pay roll, at a cost of operation perhaps three times as great.

During four years of war this association cared for the shipping of Hampton Roads, though the demands upon that body were extraordinary (testimonials of high Government officials to this fact are available) while the association has enough pilots in the making to care for over one hundred per cent. increase in commerce; there are at present twenty-five in training which is more than New York and New Jersey combined have.

Pride Of The State.

The equipment of the Virginia Pilots Association is one of which the State may well be justly proud as it equals that of New York and New Jersey combined.

The Virginia law on pilotage is the same in principle as in every seaport of the United States. That is, the pilots at all ports operate under State laws, which in the main provide that there shall be a Board of Pilot Commissioners, penalties for dereliction of duty, fixing rates, apprenticeship, etc.; the pilots in every instance owning their equipment and running the business themselves, consistent with the law, and free from demogogic influence.

State Pays No Part Of Pilotage?

Pilotage is paid only by ships engaged in foreign trade—by foreign flags, and bottoms—under control of the United States Shipping Board.

Pilotage comes wholly from outside the State, and whatever the amount goes to the grocer, the clothier, doctor, the farmer, real estate man, mechanics of all branches, as well as to public enterprises, port exploitation and charities—contributing by its circulation to the growth of not only the Hampton Roads section, but of the State itself.

And let it be here definitely known that no pilot owns a private yacht, or lives in a mansion, nor has one ever died rich.

That dangers and hardships do exist for the pilot, the writer can attest.

A forty-eight-hour cruise off the Capes, during a winter gale in a cockle shell of a boat, over the icy seas running fifteen to twenty feet high, side by side with one of these boys, will suffice to convince the most skeptical that there is not only danger and hardships, but that the pilot earns all he gets—and then some.

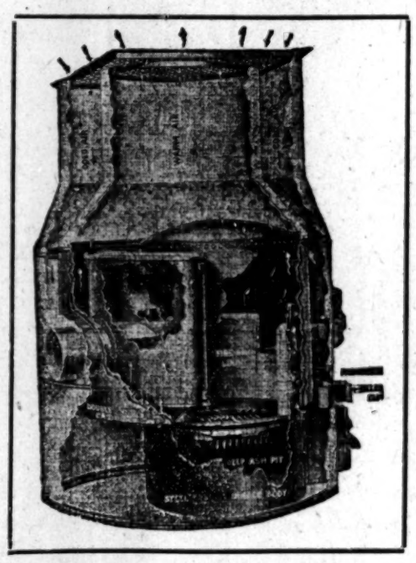
"There's a Blizzard on the Way"

SOME morning this winter your family will face that reality. Will you be ready for it? Don't forget the dangers and discomforts of last winter. Don't put off the selection of a new heating plant for your home too long. Don't go through another winter without the cozy comfort of "QUAKER" Heat.



Now is the best time to prepare your house for the damp, chill winds and the cold days that are sure to come. If you install a QUAKER FURNACE now, you'll not mind the time when "there's a blizzard on the way" because

"Quaker" Heat is Quicker Heat

QUAKER

"The Pipeless Furnace That's Built of Steel"

The Quaker Furnace is built of steel, which radiates heat three times as fast as cast iron. Yet the Quaker holds the heat longer because the firepot is lined with FIRE BRICK like the crucible of a blast furnace.

Quaker Heat is cleaner heat, too. The joints are riveted like a boiler. No cement to crack and crumble. Soot, ashes, dust and dirt positively cannot leak through. The hotter the furnace gets the tighter the joints become.

OTHER IMPORTANT FEATURES

The Quaker has an extra large water pan (with handy outside filler) which keeps the air moist and healthful. The firepot can't crack. The combustion chamber is extra large. The special hot blast saves fuel. Doors are ground EXACTLY to give perfect air-tight fit. Free catalog tells all about these and other Quaker improvements Send for it today.

Quaker Steel Pipeless Furnaces are easily installed in old or new homes. Only one register required. Made with 18, 22, 26, and 28 inch firepots. Delivered quickly from nearest wearhouse. Send for free catalog.

THE WAR TAXES

In the state of Massachusetts the authorities to whom the subject of paying the state's quota of the U. S. Direct Tax, before the 10th of May next, in order to save the ten per cent, was referred, "are of the opinion that no benefit can result to the state, from assuming and advancing the tax," and no farther proceedings were to be had on the subject. New Hampshire has also deemed it unexpedient to assume her portion of the tax.

New Jersey has determined to advance her portion on the terms prescribed by the act of Congress laying the taxes.

Four Adventures In Israel

Four adventurers in Israel set out one July evening in 1883, on a difficult journey along the highways of Judaism. Theirs was the great responsibility of bringing together Reform Judaism and American Jewry. And they hardly guessed at the obstacles that lay ahead. A chary welcome awaited them, for the committies to which they were to come were still enchained to age-old tradition, were uniformly hostile to religion formulated by modern thought. More than all else, their task was to justify the existence of the Hebrew Union College, for they were the first to call the new and much-criticised theological school "Alma Mater."

Dr. Isaac M. Wise, founder and president of the Hebrew Union College, conferred the degrees and presented the diplomas when these four adventurers set out on their life-long pilgrimage. Rabbi Henry Berkowitz, Rabbi Joseph Kraushopf, Rabbi David Philipson, and the late Rabbi Israel Aaron, were the first four men to graduate from the Hebrew Union college. Their names are among the most illustrious in modern Jewry. Their achievements for Israel, for America, and for their own communities in thirty-eight years of ministry are the unmistakable answer to those who argue "The Rabbi's calling is futile. Nothing can be accomplished by the ministry for God or man. Why then support the Hebrew Union college?" Theirs has been a notable attainment in spreading the message of Judaism and promoting the welfare of humanity.

As proof of the discouragement that beset the Rabbi's career is the fact that of sixteen men who enrolled in the HebrewUnion college in 1875-1876, only the above named four were in the first graduating class. They met for their studies in the basement school rooms of Temple B'nai Israel for two years, and for four years after that in Bene Yeshurun Temple. It was not until 1881 that a residence was purchased to be remodeled into the Hebrew Union college. Dr. Isaac M. Wise and Reverend Solomon Eppinger, Dr. Max Lilienthal, Emanuel Loewenthal, Abraham Harris, Louis Aufrecht and Mielziner, instructed this first class, and Dr. Kaufman Kohler, Rabbi B. Szold, Reverend George Jacobs, and Rabbi A. Moses conducted the oral examinations. Philipson was valedictorian.

On the evening of July 11th, 1883, a historic night in American Judaism —these four adventurers set out, and you shall hear how they fared:

At Mobile, Ala., Rabbi Berkowitz first sought to examplify his ideals of religious devotion and social service. There, in addition to his rabbinical duties, he organized the humane movement for the protection of children and animals from cruelty. At Kansas City, where he next was called, he organized the first bureau of charities and was appointed by the governor of Missouri to represent the state at the National Conference of Charities and Corrections. Immediately after, the young Rabbi came to Temple Rodeph Sholom in Philadelphia—a synagogue enriched with a century of tradition, where he began his great work of spreading the message of Judaism. The rabbi's task—he and the three others who graduated with him believed—is not merely to expound the ideals of Israel in the word of God from the pulpit on Sabbath and holidays. It is the larger task of carrying Judaism to every Jew everywhere by word of mouth, printed page and force of example. Accordingly, in 1893, he founded the Jewish Chautauqua society, which has for more than a quarter of a century by lecture and publication carried Jewish education throughout the land. In addition, he helped to found and became the first secretary of the Central Conference of American Rabbis. He was appointed on the Publication society was a member of the Committee of the Jewish Publication which compiled the Union Prayer book, and was chairman of the committees which compiled the Union Haggadah and the Book of Prayers for Private Devotion, respectively. The college which has helped to make his ministry possible, is benefiting by his presence on the board of governors. He has also been president of the Alumni association. While Rodeph Sholom grew in prestige and influence, the Jewish Chatauqua society developed a correspondence school for the study of Jewish subjects and the education of teachers and university extension lectures on Jewish topics at leading American colleges. Rabbi Berkowitz has been vice president of the Philadelphia Playground association, on the board of recreation, vice president of the Universal Peace Union, and active in the Social Purity Alliance. He toured the countries of Europe in an investigation trip as a member of Philadelphia's vice commission, studying social conditions and their remedies in many lands.

While the Rabbi at Rodeph Sholom was thus enriching the glory of his Alma Mater, at Temple Keneseth Israel in Philadelphia, too, his colleague, Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf was engaged in different but equally fruitful endeavors, directed toward the identical goal. The young Rabbi of Keneseth Israel, deemed it his function to bring the young people to the synagogue. To popularize the temple, he organized a choral society, a circulating library and reading rooms, groups for the study of current history and literature, and the Personal Interest society. To acquaint non-Jews as well as Jews with Jewish aims and ideals, he published for free distribution a series of discourses which he was then delivering on Sunday afternoons—an innovation in Philadelphia Judaism. This was the seedling from which the Jewish Publication society took root and became a mighty branchwork, with fourteen thousand members and one hundred published books, including a translation of the Bible, to its credit. While he gave his thought and energy to the Jewish Publication society, the National Farm School at Doyleston, Pa., may be accounted Dr. Krauskopf's greatest individual achievement. To this school for the free tuition of Jewish farmers, he gave twenty-two years of labor. The idea of organizing it was first conceived in his mind after a visit to an orphanage farm school near Odessa. On his return from this European trip, he directed his energy towards the duplication of the Odessa school in America. The National Farm school has trained hundreds of Jewish farmers, practically and thoroughly, without charge, and has helped to establish them on farms, thus contributing much to the solution of the problem of the Jew that has been engendered by urban life. This is not, however, Dr. Krauskopf's only social welfare achievement. As early as 1893, when he first came to Philadelphia, he helped to remedy existing social conditions by taking the lead in the Model Dwelling association and Model Kitchen, two ventures for relief of the poor. In 1897 he went to Cuba as chairman of the National Relief Committee.

Rabbi David Philipson's path has been the scholar's way. After four years in Baltimore, he returned to Cincinnati in 1888 to become Rabbi of Congregation Bene Israel, in whose basement class rooms he had studied during his first years at the Hebrew Union college. He was instructor in Bible, Arabic, and Assyrology at the college and later was its professor of Homilitics for seventeen years. This scholar rabbi—whose writings on Jewish topics, books, magazines and newspaper articles are numerous and notable, was one of the founders of the Contral Conference of American Rabbis, and during his presidency effected arrangements with the Jewish Publication society for a translation of the Bible. He was one of the seven men who undertook this task. He has served, too, as president of the Jewish Historical society and was a consulting editor of the Jewish encyclopaedia. His devotion to Jewish classics has not diminished this Rabbi's zeal for human welfare. He was recently selected to arbitrate the wage controversy in the building trades, and has been active in the Associated Charities of Cincinnati, the Public Health council, the Playground and Recreational council and other welfare organizations.

The Buffalo Jewish community recalls with affectionate memory the quarter century of devoted service which Rabbi Israel Aaron gave to Congregation Beth Zion before his death in 1912—the courage with which he overcame the obstacles that confronted the reform minister, the forsight with which he planned and built the new temple of his congregation, the esteem he left behind in the hearts of his fellowmen of every faith.

Four adventurers of Israel—these were the paths they took. Who shall say that they left no great monuments along their journeys—or that the great school from which their learning and inspiration came was not repaid manifold? Through them, and those for whom they paved the way, the teachings of the Hebrew Union college was spread throughout the land. Greater even than their geographical influence is that these adventurers reached the hearts of men, who in turn gave and are giving themselves whole-heartedly.

STALE BLOOD AFFECTS FEELINGS

Pepto-Mangan Makes Red Blood, Restores Healthy Glow

It is gradually, very gradually, that the effects of weakened blood become apparent. Generally there is a feeling of lassitude. It is like a harmless, lazy heaviness, and the complexion becomes muddy.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is the very first thing a woman should think of taking for a stale-looking complexion. It drives out the poisons that ruin complexions.

But it is not only the effect that Gude's Pepto-Mangan has upon the complexion that makes it so valuable. New healthy blood causes an improvement in feelings, a return to the usual style of enthusiasm, a sensation of warmth and glow, an appetite that eagerly awaits eating time.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan makes new blood. It comes in liquid, or tablet form, both having the same medicinal value. The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on every package. Advertisement.

New Highway Legislation

Richmond, Nov——Among the recommendations to be made to the 1922 General Assembly by State Highway Commissioner George P. Coleman will, it was today learned, be the enactment of new legislation for appropriation of funds to properly provide for rebuilding and of sections of highway taken over by the Department to connect up the State System had been previously widening roads now under maintenance by the Department. A number improved by the counties, and the Department is now confronted with the problem of maintaining these sections without adequate funds with which to finance the work.

Commissioner Coleman's recommendations will, it is said, urge upon the General Assembly the importance of this class of work. Approximately 2090 miles of roads have been taken over by the Highway Department in order to connect up section of the State System, of which about 1200 require resurfacing and widening, and Commissioner Coleman is said to feel that no other work before the Department is of greater importance than proper maintenance of all highways.

The highway from Richmond to Washington is one of the roads to which the Commissioner will call special attention in his report About 75 per cent of this road is of soil and gravel construction, making maintenance cost much greater than would be the case were the highway permanently improved. Traffic over this road is heavy at all times of the year, especially during the fall, spring and summer months, which adds to the maintenance cost. Approximately 80 per cent of the highways south from Richmond are also of soil and gravel construction. The report of the Commissioner will show, it is said, that the grading and drainage established by the Department on these roads are permanent, making unnecessary further expense for this class of work to permanently improve the highways.

Much interest is being evinced here in the recommendations to be made by Commissioner Coleman and announcement today that he would emphasize the importance of properly improving sections of highways taken over from the counties is taken here to indicate that legislation along this line will be pressed by good roads advocates in both House and Senate.

Chorus Girl Will Sue Congressman Herrick

New York, Nov. 17.—Through the grant of an application for the appointment of a guardian by Supreme Court Justice Mullan today was revealed that an 18-year-old Ziegfeld Follies girl is the plaintiff in a contemplated action against a United States congressman.

The defendant in the proposed suit is Representative Manuel Herrick, of Oklahoma, who gained notoriety by waging war on beauty contests. According to Oscar L. Meyerson, attorney, his client will ask $50,000 damages.

The plaintiff is Anna Elizabeth Niebel, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Niebel, a widow, who is the petitioner. The Niebels formerly lived in Washington, D. C.

Miss Niebel, blue-eyed and comely, was one of the winners in the beauty contest of a Washington newspaper last summer. She was one of the young contestants whom Representative Herrick called upon at the time he introduced his bill making newspaper contests illegal.

The petition asserts: "That there exists a cause for action in favor of said infant against Manuel Herrick, as defendant, for breach of promise to marry."

"I have been retained by Miss Niebel to institute action for breach of promise against Congressman Herrick, of Oklahoma," said Mr. Meyerson. "We intend starting suit for $50,000 to compensate the plaintiff for damages she has sustained by reason of said breach."

An American Doughboy In France

By ELLIOTT F. HOFFMAN
(Historia nof Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion.)
(For the Alexandria Gazette.)

Meuse-Argone Offensive

Our sojourn at this rest area was in no sense a pleasenet one. It was late in October and the nights were very cold. We had not received our winter overecoats and although we slept with our clothes on, even our shoes, we were far from comfortable. Sleeping as we were on the ground, with but one blanket each for covering. Numbers of the boys chose to sit up all night by camp fires rather than try to sleep under such uncomfortable conditions.

We tried, optimistically, in this discomfort to count over our blessings, three meals a day and no "detail" to do. We were having a change of routine, if not a rest. These so-called "rest periods" were times that called for a stout heart. Nothing to do all day but to sit around the fire in groups and talk of home and loved ones. Time to read over and over again the latest home letters and time for gloomy forebodings; would we ever see that home again? The soldiers mind was "back home" when we had time to think. You had only to see the delight with which a paper from the States bearing any date, however old, was welcomed, to know that with the soldiers it was "Home again, home again, America for me." One afternoon, after mess was over, the several companies were lined up and we were informed that a treat was in store for us, we were to have a bath! We hiked for some two or three miles to a bath house which had been fitted up in a hamlet near Eprimont. Here we had our first bath in over two months. Incidentally, this was the first time we had removed our clothing in the same long period. It was great to have a bath once more, but as clean clothing was not obtainable the comfort was only temporary. "Cooties" came back home that night.

The meals in this rest area were substantial and plentiful. That is, we could always get "seconds" on the tempting "Slumgullion" stew. Once or twice we even had sugar in our coffee and occasionally butter was served, although the gang was never willing to concede that it was butter—they called it "axle grease." At dinner time, on one occasion, the mess sergeant poured a brownish substance on our tin plates and produly announced hat it was candy! He explained that said candy had failed to harden—a whilly unnecessary explanation. This delicacy which the sergeant had so generously provided, failed to produce much enthusiasm. Instead the shell fire of compliments went something like this—"Hey, Serg. where did you get the soup? "How do you drink this candy—with a funnel and sponge?" "What you think our 'tummies' are made of—cast iron?" And the sergeant replied—(words deleted by the censor.) Yes, the rest area was a great place from the standpoint of board, loding and diversion!

Word went around that the Y. M. C. A. representative who was with our battalion had gone to a distant town for a supply of chocolate, cookies, cigarettes and chewing gum. We turned our attention to our finances by way of preparation, which means that most of us set out to borrow some francs, for with long delayed pay days and the pittance they brought boys were usually dead broke. Of course, there were always a few "financiers" and geniuses of the three golden balls, from whom the price of a cigarette might be obtained by one means or another. Indeed, to find a soldier who was not willing to help a comrade out of financial straits was indeed uncommon. On this occasion recouping our finances did no good for when the looked—for delectables arrived and we fell in line to purchase only a few doughboys could get any. Why? Officers Only! Or so it appeared from the method of distribution. But we were not to be denied our sweets and smokes. Our chaplain made a trip and brought to each man, free of cost, several packs of cigarettes, four cigars and one bar of chocolate. A better friend the buck private never had than that chaplain—Robb, was his name. He seemed always to carry our troubles on his heart. It was never too early in the morning nor too late at night for him to go out of his way to make our rugged path a bit smoother. Every inch a man, was this brave, noble, consecrated chaplain of ours.

We had only 38 men in our company and the other companies were equally depleted in man power. Practically every one was suffering from one ailment or another and no one thought, not even the officers, that we would be again put back in the line—but we were. On our last day at the rest area we were supplied with overcoats, all excess equipment was turned in, teams were harnessed and the battered remnants of the Rainbow division infantry with the 149th Field Artillery in the rear, started one cold November morning on its last days of fighting—the advance on Sedan.

Great Sunday School Convention Planned

One million, six hundred and seventy-seven thousand, six hundred and ninety-five Sunday school officers and teachers and 12,036,246 pupils in the United States and Canada are already planning for their delegates to the sixteenth International Sunday School association convention to be held in Convention Hall, Kansas City, Mo., June 21 to 27, 1922. And the executive secretary, Dr. Marion Lawrence for over 20 years Secretary of the Association, is devoting his entire time to setting up and perfecting the arrangements for what is expected to be the greatest and most significant Sunday school gathering ever held.

Eight thousand official delegates from 54 State Sunday School associations in the United States and the nine Provincial Sunday School associations in Canada are expected to be present. Even at this early date it has been necessary to limit the number of delegates that each State and Provincial association can send to one for every 4,000 Sunday school members actually enrolled.

Unusual significance is attached to this Sixteenth International Sunday School convention due to the fact that it is the first time in the history of Sunday school work that all of the national and international forces have been united in their work. For a number of years there have existed two great Sunday school organizations, the International Sunday School Association which is organized into State and County associations and the Sunday School Council of Evangelical denominations. This latter body is composed of representatives of 32 denominational schools.

The bringing together of these two bodies into one organization and the unifying of all the efforts and plans makes possible an educational committee which is now preparing a comprehensive plan of religious education which will bear an abundant fruit in the lives of the next generation of American and Canadian citizens. This committee will present its program on the afternoons of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 21, 22 and 23.

Moreover, the Sixteenth International Sunday School convention will not be a convention of speeches only. Experts of national and international fame will be heard but a considerable amount of time will be given to institute work by groups. This makes it possible for Sunday school workers with children, or young people or adults to get instruction for their particular need. It also gives opportunity for those whose work is of an administrative character or among special types of people or in the field of missions or temperance, to study their own particular problem in a group giving itself to this task alone. There will also be conferences of those who prepare the lesson systems, those who write the helps for the Sunday school lessons, and the publishers of lesson helps and dealers in Sunday school supplies.

It is planned that there shall be an "Association Day Service" in all of the Sunday schools of the continent on convention Sunday, June 25. On this day the conventioners will attend the Sunday school of their preference in Kansas City, and many of them will supply pulpits in the Twin cities. The evening meeting will be given over to the work of the World's Sunday School association of which Honorable John Wanamaker is president and Mr. Frank L. Brown is executive secretary. This program will be prepared and presented by the officers of the World's association.

Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston University will be in charge of the music, Mr. Arthur F. Stevens of the Methodist Book Concern, New York city, will prepare and direct a great exhibit of Sunday school helps, supplies and activities.

A memorial service will be held for Sunday school leaders of the United States and Canada who have died since the last convention which was held in Buffalo, N. Y., June 19 to 25, 1918. Furloughed foreign missionaries who may be in the country are to be registered without fee and invited to sit on the platform. The registration fee for all others is to be $3.50 which includes a copy of the printed report for the convention.

Special recognition will be given to the golden anniversary of the introduction of the uniform lessons, which first made possible a general systematic study of the Bible. There will also be a celebration of the merging of interests of the International association and the Sunday School Council of Evangelical denominations. Monday night, June 26, will be devoted to the special session on Christian Stewardship with speakers of national reputation, while the last message and the emphasis of evangelism.

The text of the convention at Kansas City will be "Jesus Christ, the Chief Corner Stone," and the working theme of the convention, "Building Together." The special themes for each day will be "Building Together Through the Home"; "Building Together Through the Church"; "Building Together With the Nation"; "Building Together Throughout the World"; etc.

The Baltimore Hotel, Kansas City, Missouri, will be convention headquarters.

MOTHER! CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of Mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! THE VIRGINIA PILOT ASSOCIATION

DECK VIEWS ON THE SCHOOLSHIP VIRGINIA

A Staunch And Handsome Craft Capable Of Cruising The Globe.

Top, left—ringing her ahead on both engines. Top, right—scrubbing down decks. Lower, left—lowering the boat to board a ship. Lower, right—taking soundings. Center—prominent up-state citizens investigating the system which they pronounced as one of which the State might be proud.

The discipline on the schoolship is as rigid as that of the Navy, and there are enough young Virginians in training (some from up-state, too) to care for over 100 per cent. increase in shipping.

SOME FACTS ABOUT VIRGINIA PILOTAGE

Found Upon A Thorough Investigation And Jotted Down By A Staff Writer For This Paper, These Unvarnished Facts Which Affect The Interests Of Every Class Of Citizens, As Well As The State In General, Are Here Published That Each May Read At Leisure And Verify At Will.

For more than half a century the Virginia Pilots Association of Norfolk, has maintained an unbroken record for faithful and efficient service to shipping, port protection, and in all the main movements looking to improvements and the upbuilding of Virginia harbors—from a broad exploitation of their wonderful advantages to expert service in securing Federal aid for same.

They are even now, of their own initiative, contributing most liberally in advertising the Hampton Roads section, while very substantial amounts have been expended in many other novel ways in helping to get that section "on the map."

And, too, as shown by its records, there has not been a single month, since the organization of this body in 1867, that has not been marked by special and unselfish devotion to port interests.

A Perfect System.

As an example of organization, readiness and efficiency, it can here be stated as a literal fact that this association went through four years of war with the most extraordinary demands upon it, without (on account of the war) the purchase of as much as a yawl boat or the addition of a single man to its crew, though its expenses more than doubled. And the association could go right through the same thing now and handle even more ships—a system so nearly perfect that during those four trying years, the Government did not see fit to take over, extend aid, or even suggestion while the profound honor was paid the Virginia Pilots Association of not requiring a single member to take the oath of allegience, as was exacted elsewhere.

In addition to splendid testimonials from those in command of the Fifth Naval District, the N. O. T. S., U. S. Port Captains, U. S. Secret Service and the British Admiralty in regard to the work of the pilots during the war, they co-operate with and are strongly indorsed by the U. S. Quarantine Authorities, U. S. Weather Bureau, U. S. Customs, U. S. Hydrographic Branch, U. S. Courts of Justice, Norfolk Maritime Exchange, Newport News Chamber of Commerce, Steamship Agents and Charterers, Masters of Vessels, editorially by the informed and unbiased press, leading port interests, and many prominent individuals — these testimonials being on file and available in the offic of the Association.

Pilots Are Port Builders.

Pilots are, in truth, port experts, port builders, and port buffers. They stand between the ports and threatened disaster, regardless of consequences to themselves. They have always exploited the port's advantages and worked for their upbuilding—all of which has been done in an unselfish and whole-hearted manner and spirit.

Capt. W. R. Boutwell, president of the association, figured quite conspicuously in securing, first (as chairman of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Harbor Committee) $1,250,000 for a thirty-foot channel, and three years later (as chairman of the Joint Harbor Committee of Norfolk and Newport News) in securing about $2,250,000 for the thirty-five foot channel from both ports to sea—a matter which was accomplished just in time to meet war exigences in the accommodation of such vessels as had never before frequented our ports, and which could not have come to us but for these improvements.

Same The World Over.

Through some propaganda recently spread throughout the State, no doubt for political expediency on the part of a few, an endeavor showed a tendency to mislead the public to believe that the principle of marine practice—that is the vessels being compelled to accept services of the pilot—is peculiar to Virginia, when, in fact, it obtains at nearly every seaport of the United States, and practically all the great ports of the world. It is a marine traffic regulation which has its foundation in the experience of the great commercial countries of the world during several centuries—the vessel being required to be under skilled guidance for the safety of ports, other vessels, and human lives; for, as said by Lord Fisher:

If a vessel is wrecked and lost, and sunk near to the entrance of a commercial port, she is not only lost herself, but she is a great danger and obstruction to the port and to other vessels, and would interfere with commercial business of the port.

It has also been found in the experience of the commercial states throughout the world, that loss of life and property have greatly increased when vessels were allowed, under optional conditions of pilotage, to run amuck in crowded channel ways. New York, over a half century ago, abolished compulsion, during which period there were many casualties, the most frightful among them being the loss of the ship New Era and four hundred emigrants whose bodies were washed ashore and now lie buried at the site of Asbury Park. The New Era's captain, in reckless confidence, and within the law, had declined the services of a pilot.

Sweden and other countries have tried it, but always with quick return to compulsion. A few years ago North Carolina made the same experiment, but at the next session of her Legislature restored compulsory pilotage her commerce having become virtually ruined within a few months. A volume could well be devoted to this one point.
